CARMEL ELECTION RESULTS

Carmel voters turned out in droves Tuesday and defeated the proposed million dollar school bond issue. Although the bonds won a simple majority in the voting - 766 ayes and 661 noes - it was far from the two-thirds majority needed.

The voting was heavy, with 1,432 showing up at the Sunset School to exercise their rights. School authorities report that they knew the bond issue was defeated when the "no" votes climbed above 477. The margin of the bond's defeat was about 185 votes.

In a statement to The SPECTATOR Tuesday night, Harold Nielsen, chairman of the School Board, said another bond issue would be brought before the public "as soon as possible." He said the $300,000 high school auditorium, which was the most controversial item in the bond issue, will probably be dropped from the new issue.

LECTURE CANCELED

Owing to the prolonged convalescence of Lorita Baker Vallely due to her recent accident when she was severely burned in her home in Beverly Hills, Miss Alice Seckels, manager of her lecture series in Carmel, announces that the remaining lectures in Carmel will be cancelled. A refund to Season subscribers for coupon tickets not used, will be made if mailed to Miss Seckels, Box 643, Carmel.

The SPECTRE

By CERF ANDSAND

If anyone wants to holler "Foul!" with regard to the school bond election results, they have a good illegality to pin their hopes on. It seems that a line of about 60 voters was not accomodated at the polls by 7 p.m. Tuesday, the time that the polls close officially. State law says no one may vote after that time, but the half a hundred tardy Carmelites were herded into a locked room after seven to cast their votes . . .

Last Thursday night Sunset Auditorium was filled up several times by Peninsulites who went to see the free travel moview offered by Dave Prince and Margaret Peasley, of the Morse-Gleason Travel Agency. Over 800 guests came and went as they viewed the movies of the countries in which they were most interested. Looks like Dave really had an idea in this movie idea. I guess people hereabouts are either very travel-conscious or movie starved.

Big Guns from back East are currently registering at Del Monte Lodge, Pebble Beach. Among them are Mr. and Mrs. Juan Trippe, Greenwich, Conn., (President of Pan-American Airways); Mr. and Mrs. James A. Linen, also of Greenwich, (Publisher of Time Magazine); Mr. and Mrs. Kingman Moore, of New York, (Veep and director of Canada Dry Ginger Ale); Joseph Abbott, of Greenwich (again?), (President of American Sugar Refining Co.), and Mr. and Mrs. Dudley Roberts, of New York, (Partner in Roberts & Co., NYC)...

Monterey Peninsula College campus is quite ultra-cosmopolitan, did you know that? Students represent 18 foreign countries, and the Soviet Union leads with seven native-borns. The United Kingdom runs second with five. There are also students from 45 of the 48 states, and from Hawaii, Alaska, Puerto Rico and Cuba. Surprisingly enough, New York leads the out-of-state contingent with 17 students ...

ROOSEVELT DENOUNCED

Branding James Roosevelt as a political adventurer whose record of public service is pockmarked by a string of broken promises, Welburn Mayock, Democratic candidate for governor, on Monday called on all loyal Democrats to defeat Roosevelt at the state primary.

Mayock, in an address given over the Mutual-Don Lee Network, accused young Roosevelt of using the Democratic party as a bootjack and a stepping-stone to further his personal national ambitions, and has openly demonstrated that party policy and precedent is secondary.

"Roosevelt's record of shameless trickery," Mayock said, "speaks for itself. In 1946, when he was opposed as chairman for the Democratic State Central Committee, young Roosevelt promised he would not run for any state office for 10 years. He broke that promise. He began his campaign for governor just three years later, in 1949."

"To James Roosevelt, a political promise or a pledge is the same as to a Communist. To both, it is a device by which one gains a present advantage in which only fools would allow it to guide their future conduct."

Among other broken promises credited to Roosevelt in the official Democratic Party files, Mayock said that probably the most glaring was a Roosevelt promise to pay back $30,000 which he borrowed from the National Democratic Committee while Roosevelt was serving as state chairman. He said that the treachery of Roosevelt is a matter of record and cited the fact that Roosevelt tried to stampede the Democratic National Convention in Philadelphia in 1948 to back Eisenhower and himself after he had been pledged to support President Truman. Mayock declared the party lost 45 percent of its state Congressional delegation under his leadership.

"Such a record," Mayock continued, "combined with his former affiliation with pro-Communist groups in Hollywood, shows that he is treating the governorship of this state contemptuously."

Mayock warned that it was the duty of all true California Democrats to band together and return Roosevelt to the obscurity from whence he came.

Growing Pains

By MIKE McCLURE

Sometime in June, that's when the Carmel Youth Center is to be finished. This information was divulged this week by Carmel Mayor Fred Godwin and George Wessell, high school athletic director.

The building will house all types of recreational facilities: Shuffleboard, cards, pool, ping pong, badminton, movies and dancing. The first floor will be devoted entirely to the boys' activities, while the second floor will be "coeducational" - for boys and girls. Stage plays and private parties can be held in the building.

The center will be governed by the younger generation, although a man and wife will live there as caretakers. The club hours have not been decided upon as yet, but I can assure you they will be made to suit everyone's liking.

CARMEL WOMEN DEMOS TO HOST CONGRESSIONAL CANDIDATE

The Carmel Women's Democratic Club is holding a reception Friday, March 10, from 4 to 5:30 p.m. in the home of Mrs. Paul H. Low, Ridgewood Road, for Marion Walker, of Ventura, who has been endorsed by the Monterey County Central Committee as a candidate for Congress. Men and women are invited to attend and meet Mr. Walker.

TO PASS ON NEW ORDINANCE

The Pacific Grove City Council last night was scheduled to take up, at long last, the new planning ordinance which has been worked on by both the council and Planning Commission.

Two weeks ago, the council discovered an error in the zoning map made its publication impossible, thus delaying the new measure until last night.

Prepared with the assistance of Walter Hahn, the zoning law has passed two hearings before the City Planning Commission, but must be passed into law by the council before it becomes effective.

Until its final passage, the city is using an "interim" ordinance, based on the law about to be passed.

EVERYONE HAS STAKE IN BEACH PURCHASE

A newspaper would search long before finding a project more worthy of editorial support than the campaign for public acquisition of the beaches and river lagoon south of Carmel. We would be guilty of gross stupidity were we to allow any changes in those beautiful stretches of sand and surf.

Residents of the Monterey Peninsula have a chance now to do something for which the future generations will be thankful - just as we are thankful that Carmel Beach is not presently a boardwalk.

How many times have we heard someone say, "Five will get you ten that . . ."?

Well, $25,000 will get us $50,000, the amount now needed to keep the southern beaches free of commercial encroachment. The Point Lobos League is running a well-coordinated campaign to collect $25,000 toward purchase of the beach north of the Carmel River and the river lagoon. The State of California will match that amount, as it had already matched the county-donated $25,000 for acquiring the beach south of the river.

Every person on the peninsula has a stake in this proposal, as do visitors to the area. There are approximately 50,000 residents on the peninsula who would have to donate only 50 cents apiece to acquire the beaches - a small admission price to a beautiful coastline. Not everyone will donate, naturally, but individuals should give as they can afford.

AND A LONG WAY FROM SHORE

SAYS "BUY AT HOME" CAMPAIGN NEEDED NOW

Of growing concern to peninsula business men has been a trend in off-peninsula shopping.

Beattie declared this week that recent surveys indicate firms in areas "20 to 120 miles away" are getting much Monterey Peninsula business.

So far, no specific remedies have been suggested. One cause for the disease, however, has been noted. Clyde A. Dorsey, Monterey city manager, said he had been buying on the peninsula for 20 years. He said many peninsula consumers "had the idea -- and RIGHTLY !! that prices sometimes were higher."

Beattie indicated that "convenience" often was a factor. A large super-market with plenty of parking space might have an advantage over a neighborhood store.

The chamber president suggested a "buy at home campaign" might be a good thing, might stress the fact that every workingman has a chance at the dollars spent locally, almost none at the dollars spent elsewhere.

The Monterey Merchants Committee last year made a survey on peninsula prices as compared with those elsewhere. Copies of the result were sent to each member of the committee -- but were never released for publication.

It looks now as though local merchants will seriously consider outside competition. Good roads and cars have changed conditions so greatly that competition, which once was far away, today is at the peninsula's door-step.

Senator Calls Hydrogen Atom a Boon, Not Doom

Thinks World May Soon Utilize Hydrogen Power

SPECIAL TO THE SPECTATOR

WASHINGTON—A leading international authority in the Senate takes a calmer view of the hydrogen bomb than Dr. Albert Einstein who said that it threatens the world with "general annihilation of life."

Senator Elbert D. Thomas (D), Utah, says, "Mankind has always been able to commit suicide" but that desire for survival is so strong that "if you blew everything to pieces you'd find some girl Thursday and some man Friday and they would start over again."

Senator Elbert D. Thomas

The senator predicts that the hydrogen bomb will be "to the advantage of mankind" because of the attendant availability of hydrogen for civilian use.

Thomas argues that "every bit of power we use now is helping waste the earth." He says coal and oil supplies, sources of power in use today, must some time be exhausted, and foresees use by hydrogen power in his own lifetime.

● TAX CUT MAY NOT BE FUN—The American consumer can look forward to congressional enactment of a bill cutting excise taxes—but it may not be an unmixed blessing.

Both Houses are ready to accept, and even exceed President Truman's recommendation for a 625 million dollar slash in taxes on consumer purchases and services.

However, when the tax cuts go into effect—probably on July 1—they will not be an unmixed blessing if Congress accepts the president's other recommendation for a 675 million dollar boost in corporation taxes so that the Treasury will not suffer a loss in revenue.

In that event, corporations probably will pass on their increased tax costs to the public by boosting the price of their products. In other words, while the tax on a fur coat may be eliminated, the gain may be offset by a boost in the price of the garment.

● HST VS. UNEMPLOYMENT—The administration is more worried than it cares to admit over the rising unemployment figures, and the January postwar high hasn't alleviated matters.

Unemployment in January hit 4,480,000. This was 991,000 above December. The Commerce department said the increase was due to seasonal factors and Treasury Secretary John Snyder declared it was "not cause for concern."

However, the White House has been giving the matter some deep thinking particularly since figures have shown that personal incomes in 1949 dropped considerably below the previous year.

The White House is said to be considering two courses:

1—Increasing employment through greater defense spending, which can be attributed to the cold war.

2—Making available federal loans to faltering industries.

● CRIME PROBE—Look for a full-fledged investigation by Congress of organized crime in the United States.

Senator Estes Kefauver (D), Tennessee, already has offered a resolution calling for a sweeping inquiry into gambling syndicates, including the highly-publicized slot machine racket.

See Senate Approval of Measure

Kefauver's measure is expected to win Senate approval without difficulty, and pave the way for public hearings.

Attorney General Howard McGrath's recent "crime" conference in Washington of local law enforcement officers from throughout the nation helped build up support for the Kefauver proposal.

Of course, the Justice department and the FBI will offer full cooperation with the Kefauver probe. Big-name gamblers may be called to testify.

INSPECT DOUGLAS SCHOOL CAMPS.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Browne, of San Jose, visited the Douglas School yesterday. They drove to the Douglas Camps in Carmel Valley as they are interested in selecting a summer camp for their son and daughter. Mr. Browne is a department manager of the Anglo-California National Bank of San Jose.

When the Monterey County Symphony Orchestra presents its next concert at the Sunset Auditorium on Tuesday, the audience will hear the first violin soloist who has played with this organization in its four years of existence. He is Warren von Bronkhorst, above, a talented senior of the San Jose State College, who will play the charming Violin Concerto No. 4 in D major by Mozart. He has been loaned by that college to Carmel - and later to Salinas - through the good graces of his teacher, Gibson Walters, instructor in violin on the college faculty.

Van Bronkhorst is a personable young man who came from Sacramento to take an intensive course in music at the college after serving a couple of years in the military in the last war. His musical education has been marked by intense application to an ideal, for this lad of 22 has studied violin since the age of 8. A milestone in his career will come this spring with his Bachelor of Arts at San Jose, where he is majoring in music, and another will arrive next fall when he continues his post-graduate studies at the Eastman School of Music in Rochester.

Despite his youth van Bronkhorst has already had considerable experience as soloist with orchestras in this state. He came before the Sacramento Symphony in 1947, and presented the difficult Sibellius Concerto last year with the San Jose State College Orchestra. He is also lined up with the San Jose Civic Symphony for a concert next April. Among honors he has won is a scholarship to study with the famed Griiler String Quartet in San Francisco.

The Mozart Concert Concerto with van Bronkhorst is but one number of the excellent program being offered. It starts off with the melodious Semiramide Overture of Rossini under the baton of Lorell McCann, who next puts the orchestra through the inspiring First Symphony of Brahms, the most formidable as well as the most beautiful symphony played by the local group. The balance of the program is directed by Clifford Anderson who has the orchestra during the Mozart concerto, and ends the evening with the dulcet measures of Handel's Water Music Suite. Tickets are obtainable at music stores and at the box office of the auditorium when the doors open at 7:30 p.m.

When fine weather comes, flowers pop up; so do the suits. You probably have already looked and tried, hesitated and ... looked again. A suit is certainly the hardest and most subtle buy, but whatever you have in mind always remember what the premiere (head saleswoman) of Schiaparelli once told me, "It is better to have one very good suit than three mediocre ones." Good material (for that Carmel shops are outstanding), perfect cut and line, give you already a good asset. But do try to choose a suit that can be adapted to your personality. If you are slender and very feminine even the more masculine looking suit will look well on you. If you are tall, strongly built or not quite slim enough, be extra careful, particularly if you wear your hair short. Take a classic suit if you like, but definitely not one with a shirt-type blouse. Choose instead something feminine and frilly. No matter what the fashion is, don't follow it blindly. Remember that husbands or beaux, and even confirmed bachelors dislike the mannish-type. Very understandable, don't you think?

As to the general trend in suits this spring, here are the opinions of three of the finest (and most expensive) tailors in Paris:

O'Rossen recommends more softness in the shoulders and the bust, pinched waist and slightly accentuated hips; decorative vests and feminine blouses. Some jackets are bloused or boxed, but skirts are all narrow.

"Suits are more than ever in style," says Knize. His preference is for classical suits, but with luxury of details on pockets, lapels and collars. All shades of blue are shown in his "collection."

Charles Montaigne has attracted interest in his suits by the use of unusual material, and the unusual treatment of classical materials. Besides tweeds and flannels he uses alpaca, shantung, fresco, "grains de caviar" and exotic silks. His favorite colors are grey, navy blue and copper.

WITH

Betsy Abbott

With spring fever gripping us these days, it's good to know the shops up and down the streets of Carmel are bursting with new spring stock. After one trip to town, one feels reassured that the dullness of winter has gone for another year...

Dropped in to see Mr. Otrich at CANDLES OF CARMEL today and he would like me to impart this information to you... There are catalogues available for you with a complete price list covering his beautiful collection of candles; also shipping rates for the "gifts of candles" you might care to send your friends. I believe CANDLES OF CARMEL has the greatest selection, and anyone would be thrilled to receive a gift so beautiful and unusual as these candles are... Be sure to go down and procure your catalogue soon - in Golden Bough Court, Carmel, across from the Pine Inn.

If you haven't already met ... and believe me you should ... let me "introduce" you to KIP'S FOOD CENTER. This distinctive market is known not only for its friendly service but also for its quality and well stocked shelves. You will find KIP'S prices in line. Remember ... you never waste money when you buy quality. KIP'S hours: 7:30 a.m. to 9 p.m. every day, including Sundays, are a great advantage when unexpected company arrives or you find some vital ingredient needed for a meal at the last minute. For your convenience... Delivery in Pebble Beach Daily at 1:00 ... Carmel, 10 and 2 p.m. Located on corner of Ocean Avenue and San Carlos, Carmel; phone 167.

It takes no figuring at all to "dream up" a celebration the whole family will love, if you call Carmel 71. A weekend away from home! How "Mama" will love it! In the MONTE VERDE you can "house-keep" if you want to - everything is right there, or you can just rest (Beautyrest mattresses) and look out the window, and enjoy generally your colorful comfort. It is a perfect present for anyone or for the whole family - a stay at the MONTE VERDE APARTMENTS AND ROOMS, Monte Verde, three steps south of Ocean.

LAUNCH DRIVE FOR BEACH PURCHASE FUND

Carmel River Beach

Carmel River Lagoon

A concerted drive to collect $25,000 started at the weekend in Carmel for public acquisition of the 60 acres of beach north of the Carmel River mouth. The money, when collected, will be matched by state funds, making a total of $100,000 which will have been scraped together to save the beaches south of Carmel.

The county has already put up $25,000, also to be matched by state funds, for purchase of the beach south of the river mouth.

The drive actually got underway several months ago. Working steadily, an organization known as the Point Lobos League, under the leadership of Francis Whitaker, Carmel blacksmith, brought the neglected southern beaches to the attention of Carmelites and their neighbors in the unincorporated areas. When it was learned that a new subdivision was being mapped out for the coastal area south of the Portola Cross, the league went to work on the county - and the county came through. It promised the first $25,000, which started the ball rolling.

This weekend Carmelites were not only being handed attractive pamphlets, titled "Let's Save the Carmel River Beaches," but, if they attended the local movie theater, they heard Mr. Whitaker discuss the need for additional funds and saw a movie on birdlife and one that also showed several familiar coastal scenes. Contribution blanks with the pamphlets provide for donations to an acquisition fund and a publicity fund.

Following is the acquisition plan, as set forth by the Point Lobos League:

* In 1944 the Monterey County Planning Commission adopted a Park and Recreation Plan for Monterey County.

* One unit of this plan is described as the Carmel River Mouth and extends from the end of Scenic Drive in Carmel to the southern end of San Jose Creek Beach, including the Carmel River Lagoon.

* The funds for acquiring Beaches and Parks under the Master Plan have been appropriated by the State Legislature, with the stipulation that each dollar of State money be matched by a dollar from other sources.

* The Monterey County Board of Supervisors sets aside a certain sum each year for this purpose, and is in the process of acquiring a part of the beach in the proposed State Park, but has not enough money available to complete the project.

* To speed the acquisition of the Carmel River Mouth and all the adjacent beaches, the Point Lobos League has set a goal of $25,000 to be raised by public subscription and added to the County Fund. Each dollar so raised will release another five dollars for acquisition, as the State will match the sum total of private and County Funds.

* In short, for twenty cents on the dollar, the people can acquire this unique scenic and recreational area.

VISIT THE BAGLEYS

BLAIRS WIDELY FETED

Mr. and Mrs. William McCormick Blair, of Lake Forest, Ill., who are currently vacationing at Pebble Beach, were honor guests Sunday at a luncheon hosted by Mr. and Mrs. Samuel F. B. Morse at their Pebble Beach home. Among those who attended the affair were Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. McClintic, of Pittsburgh, Captain and Mrs. Thomas J. Casey, Mr. and Mrs. Tirey L. Ford, Mrs. Francis McComas and Rollo Peters.

Other affairs being given in honor of the Blairs include a dinner Saturday night last which Mrs. Frances A. Elkins hosted, and another dinner by Mr. and Mrs. George L. Coleman, Jr., on Wednesday of this week.

MILLER FILES FOR LT. GOVERNOR

State Senator George Miller, Jr., Contra Costa County Democrat, will be a candidate for Lieutenant-Governor in the June 6 primary election, he announced yesterday from his Richmond office, following an extensive tour of the state.

"I believe a Lieutenant-Governor must be more than a presiding officer of the Senate. I intend to be a working Lieutenant-Governor, to aid and assist the Governor - not snipe at him," Miller asserted.

"I am a candidate because I know, as a result of an extensive trip through the state, that I have the overwhelming support of Democratic committeemen, small farmers, liberal businessmen and organized labor who want effective leadership in California's life or death struggle for jobs, homes, schools, security for the aged and infirm, cheap water and power," Senator said.

PLANNERS DELAY STONEHOUSE ACTION AGAIN

In a not very surprising move last Thursday afternoon, the Carmel Planning Commission postponed a decision on the application of Harold P. Brown for a change in zoning at Stonehouse on Monte Verde and Eighth, Carmel. Brown has sought for the past several months a means to operate his guest house at full capacity - 10 guests.

The planners decided to adjourn the meeting until Wednesday, April 26, when they will have the results of an advisory poll as to how the public feels about extending commercial uses into the residential district.

Attorney Eben Whittlesey explained that the Browns would be willing to acquire extended use of their guest house under the provisions of a "restrictive covenant," which could be drawn up in such a manner that Stonehouse would be limited to guest house activities. The covenant could be written so that Brown would be limited by agreements with property owners in his vicinity and with the City of Carmel, Whittlesey said.

Planning Commission Chairman P. A. McCreery commented, after Whittlesey had explained the covenant idea, that any action "at this time" would be "premature." The advisory question on the Spring ballot will reflect how Carmel feels about the matter, he said.

Referring to the advisory question, which was presented by the City Council when it changed the guest house limitation from three paying guests to four, Whittlesey said it was worded too broadly to have any relevance to the Browns' specific case.

Commissioner Ernest Bixler also expressed his disfavor for the advisory question. "It is not well phrased," he said. "I doubt if even the Browns would vote for it."

The advisory question reads: "Is it your wish that the zoning ordinance should be amended to permit the establishment or maintenance of commercial guest houses, housing more than four paying guests in the present residential zone?"

The comments of Whittlesey and Bixler were in line with recent statements made by guest house owners, who feel the entire problem would be solved by allowing capacity operation in the 10 or 11 large places in existence.

"It's not a question of commercializing the entire residential area," one guest house owner said this week. "The houses now in operation could be taken care of and provision made that no further such exceptions be made."

Horace Lyons, a member of the audience at the Thursday meeting, said the County Planning Commission is studying the drafting of a more flexible zoning ordinance, awaiting the results of a survey currently being made by Carmel Unincorporated. He said he thought Carmel Planners might make a similar study. Bixler and Commissioners Herbert Heron and Donald Craig indicated that they saw merit in Lyon's suggestion.

It is understood that some guest house owners are now looking into the possibility of getting an "initiative" on the Spring ballot with regard to the present guest house ordinance. Their aim is to offer voters a choice other than the Council-sponsored "advisory" question.

AWVS HAS 38 NEW MEMBERS

Thirty-eight new members of the American Women's Voluntary Services were welcomed into the organization during a Board of Directors tea Thursday afternoon in the La Playa Hotel. New President Mrs. Frank Ringland presided.

Committee for the tea was Mrs. A. Gordon Bagley, chairman; Mrs. Mary Johnson, Mrs. L. Carey, Mrs. Howell Armour and Mrs. Helen Clark Park.

Tables were decorated with fruit blossoms and spring daffodils and tea was poured by the Mesdames Edward Cochrane, D. D. Stoffer, William E. Oberholtzer and William M. McNamee.

ANSWER TO THIS WEEK'S

WHO IS IT?

Andy Jacobsen, of Pacific Grove, chairman of the Monterey County Board of Supervisors, is featured in this week's "Who Is It?" Born in 1890, a native of Illinois, Mr. Jacobsen has lived in California since he was a small boy, attending school in Alvarado, Calif., and Polytechnic Business College in Oakland. His father, a plaster contractor in San Francisco, decided to move to Los Angeles in 1920, but the family stopped off in Pacific Grove to visit Mr. Jacobsen's sister-in-law. Mr. Jacobsen liked it here and stopped off permanently. Having worked as a plasterer, he became a contractor himself, doing much of the work in homes in Pebble Beach, Carmel and Carmel Highlands. He also went into the real estate business, building homes for sale, but "I got clipped in 1929," he reports. Mr. Jacobsen then took on a partnership with Carl Cope, of Carmel, as Texaco distributor, and now also is a partner in Padre Tire & Radio, New Monterey. Married in 1915 to Dagny Bergsen, of Jolon, he is the father of three: Madeline (Mrs. Chan Carpenter, of San Francisco), Lucille (Mrs. Roy Enderlin, of Calistoga), and 20-year-old Neil Jacobsen, who is unmarried. Mr. Jacobsen was elected to the Board of Supervisors in 1932 and has been a member ever since. He has headed the board for the past 16 years, elected each year to the position. He was for eight years a Pacific Grove School Board trustee, chairman of Civilian Defense during the war and is a past president of the PG Chamber of Commerce. Known widely and well liked, he is a "headline Republican," at one time chairman of the County Central Committee. "You may say that I am definitely opposed to the federal government's policy of definite spending," he commented.

By BILL MARTIN

The average person thinks of block printing as a rather crude method of transmitting design to plain paper or fabric. Any American who has attended high school has seen the run-of-the-mill linoleum cuts or wood cuts that are used in some school newspapers. Crude is the right adjective in many instances.

If peninsula residents care to see what can be done with this age old process, let them view the exhibition of block printed fabrics currently on display at the Ermelen Handcrafts Shop in Carmel. Executed by hand, many of the designs appear impossibly intricate. They were created by members of the famous Folly Cove Designers, who make their West Coast debut in the Carmel shop.

The Folly Cove organization was formed 11 years ago by the wife of George Demetrios, the famous sculptor. She is known nationally as Virginia Lee Burton, book illustrator, but Carmelites are probably aware that she is the daughter of Mrs. Carl Cherry, a villager of many years and sponsor of the Carl Cherry Foundation for the creative arts.

Folly Cove Designers is composed of 24 men and women who live near Gloucester, Mass., and who are experts at block printing. Each member is required to create at least one design a year, and each must not only do his own design but follow through by hand to the finished product, which is the design on fabric in any from one to four colors. Their work has been featured prominently at Lord & Taylor's in New York. Each design in the Carmel shop retails from $4.50 a yard (for one color designs) to $10.50 a yard (for four colors).

The designs are geometric, floral, novelty (one of these is called "Reducing" and shows the complete story of a woman exercising herself from corpulence to slimness), scenic, and many other themes. While few of them would fit in with a traditional home interior, they are adaptable to modern and provincial - or the "cottagey" type homes for which Carmel is famous.

Block printing is a process that is 4,000 years old. Following is a description of the methods followed by the Folly Cove Designers:

Linoleum block is painted with white shoe polish, then design is traced onto block with carbon paper and pencil. A sharp wedge-shaped tool with various sized blades is used to gouge out the outline of the design and oil paint of the desired color (mixed with a small amount of white printer's ink) is transferred to the block with a roller. Heavy fabrics should be washed before printing, but all fabrics are sponged with a few drops of a wetting agent added to the water to make it print more easily. The damp material is spread smoothly on a thick pad of newspapers and the block set carefully on top. Pressure is needed all over the block, especially at the corners. Some people use a press for this, but standing on the block will turn the trick. The block must be taken away from the cloth carefully, and kerosene may be used to clean the block if the lines become fuzzy when making a repeat pattern.

Mrs. Helen Beecher, of the Ermelen Handcrafts Shop, was careful to point out that a four color design means that four different blocks must be used. Each color for the separate parts of the overall pattern must be applied separately.

"One small mistake will ruin an entire piece of drapery material," she said.

Go take a look at Mrs. Beecher's exhibition of 50 Folly Cove designs. You won't find even "one small mistake." The age of handcrafts is not quite dead.

VALLEY RESORTS READY FOR BIG SEASON

Resort activity in the Carmel Valley is looking up. In just a month the seasonal on sale beverage licenses will be in force and many visitors are expected to start off the season.

Bill Wood will be at the helm again at the Lodge in Robles Del Rio; the Carmel Valley Inn will get going; the Carousel, which has been open all winter, will start a feverish new burst of activity under the direction of Big Bob Robinson and Little Bob Mills, and the Rancho Del Monte Country Club will be open to members and guests.

The big news of the season is the change in operations at the Rancho Los Laureles Lodge. Sandy Griffin has leased the Lodge and stables to Herb and Ollie Brook, who are well known in California and Europe as host and hostess of guest lodges. The Brooks have operated Aetna Springs in Napa County, Strawberry Hill up in the ski country and other well known resorts. They plan an interesting program for out-of-town guests, Valley-ites and Peninsula residents, which will include among other things: folk dancing twice weekly in the barn, smorgasbord on Sunday in the beautiful gardens and around the pool, and riding under the direction of Jack Cutler.

Construction of the new road out to the Valley is progressing rapidly and the contractors promise but little interference with traffic. All in all it looks like a big season for Carmel Valley.

Mrs. Robert P. Knight, of Stockbridge, Mass., Mrs. Samuel F. B. Morse and Mrs. Tirey L. Lauds First Theatre Cast

By PETE JOHNSTON

This sterling piece was not at all the type of play we, as new residents of the peninsula, had expected to see at the famous California First Theater. We had expected hammed up old time melodrama, but got pretty good theater instead. (Our appreciation was probably whetted by favorable comparison with the unusually poor movies recently foisted upon the helpless public.

If we wrote this review on a Bible we couldn't be more sincere when we say that the whole cast was magnificent.

Clare Barnwell and Bob Eder played their roles with feeling and managed to remind one of Belinda and Hairbredth Harry. It was a pleasure to hiss at Willie Holman, the villain, who sneers and leers in fine fashion. Holman's voice is really mean, except for the rare moments in the play when it honeys up for the fair maiden. In the interest of preserving a little of the idea of melodrama this reviewer suggests that Mr. Holman twirl a mustache and slink around a little, a la Rudolph Rossendale, that he may be instantly recognized for the cur he portrays.

Wayne Edwards as the murdered father didn't appear long on stage but managed to impress the audience with his role.

Two of the juiciest roles are played by Alex Olivetti and Patty Trevett, a couple of real meanies, portraying Mr. and Mrs. "Coffee-Nerves" to the hilt.

Dee Olivetti as the sweet, bewildered, mistreated mother was excellent, as everyone had anticipated.

The surprise of the show was Eben, the ole cullud retainuh, played by Charles Ernst. Except for a few misplaced "Missys" and "Massuhs" his dialect was good, understandable, and played up perfectly.

The "Olio" which followed the play was hilarious. With the exception of one screwball Sports Pantomine, all was in the old theatrical tradition and made a most enjoyable ending to an interesting evening of good entertainment.

CARMEL BUSINESS ASSOCIATION MEETS MARCH 7

The Carmel Business Association will hold a dinner meeting at 7 p.m. Tuesday, March 7, at the Mission Ranch. The program, under the chairmanship of Mrs. Marian Brueck, will be announced at a later date.

ROBERT KIRK, Ltd. OPENS NEW CARMEL SHOP ON WEDNESDAY

Robert Kirk, Ltd., one of the largest importers of British tweeds and sportswear in this area, with two stores in San Francisco, will open a new shop in Carmel Wednesday, March 1, in the recently built addition to the La Ribera Hotel, Seventh and Lincoln. Upstairs from the shop, which is located at the corner of the hotel, the La Ribera has added a large "penthouse" accomodation.

The shop, which is managed by Miss Dorothy Druhe, will merchandise ladies' tweeds and sportswear, British and Scotch sweaters, a small line of men's furnishings and argyle hosiery, British leather goods, toby jugs and English sporting prints.

GARDEN SYMPOSIUM AT CARMEL WOMEN'S CLUB MEETING MONDAY

Speakers included Mrs. Douglas H. Martz, "History and Culture of Camellias"; Mrs. Lawrence Lyon, of Pacific Grove, "Fuchsias"; Mrs. Dorothy Bingaman, "Gardening for Cut Flowers and Sharing with Your Neighbor"; Mrs. Cranston, "Shrubs."

Members of the tea committee were Mrs. E. B. Mizener, Miss Elsa Campbell, Mrs. Barbara Murphy and Mrs. J. O. Handley. During the March 6 meeting of the Women's Club, Mrs. Larry Johns will review a current play and give theater news in her presentation of "Theater International."

SPCA Sponsors Pet Contest

The Monterey County Humane Society is sponsoring a "Pet Appeal Photo Contest" from March 1 to April 30 for members of the Junior Humane Society. Boys and girls under 18 years of age are eligible to join the society, according to Dr. Ralph Weston, chairman, who reports membership blanks are available at any pet store or camera shop.

Any photo of a Junior Humane Society member's pet will be acceptable and awards will be based primarily on "pet appeal." First and second prizes will be silver cups donated by Derek Rayne and Marion Kingsland, respectively. Third prize will be 10 passes to any peninsula theater, while five other awards are to be announced next week.

Beach Beauty

White picue bathing suit.

By VERA WINSTON

NO MATTER what colors or what fabrics are popular, a stellar role in the resort beach picture is held by crisp white cotton. Crisp white bird's eye pique, it is then, for this cleverly contrived bathing suit, that, while it achieves a "little girl" look, still manages to bring out the curves. The halter neckline is adjustable, hooking onto the top through eyelets, the belt working the same way. A set-in diagonal band marks the bustline.

NEW WOMEN'S SHOP AT PEBBLE BEACH

Another exclusive women's shop will be established on the peninsula in the near future when the Carolyn Kelsey shop opens at Pebble Beach. This will be a branch of the well-known San Francisco store and will be located in the new shopping centre opposite the Del Monte Lodge.

Miss Kaye Collins who has been with the Carolyn Kelsey store in San Francisco is manager. Miss Collins, a native of Kingston, Ontario, Canada, is enthusiastic about the location and living on the Monterey Peninsula.

WOMEN'S POST MEETS ON SECOND WEDNESDAYS

Monterey Cypress Post 394, American Legion, is now meeting the second Wednesday of each month in the Legion Hall, Monterey, according to Eirene Read, commander of the women's veteran post. The organization will receive its permanent charter in the latter part of March and memberships are still available, she said this week.

Your CONGRESSMAN REPORTS

ERNEST K. BRAMBLETT, M.C.

The ancient gag of the husband who explains his appearance home at 4 a.m. with the statement that he has been sitting up with a sick friend, has been replaced in Washington lately.

"I've been out watching the house of representatives in action," is the new one.

On Washington's Birthday, technically a legal holiday, the house was in continuous session from noon until 3:20 a.m. the following morning, or 15 hours and 20 minutes.

If we had stayed another 40 minutes, we'd have been violating the 16 hour law, which I remember so well when my dad worked on the railroad. After 16 hours, a crew had to quit on the spot and dead head in.

A good many of the members looked just as bedraggled at the end of the session as my dad did after those long hours.

The prolonged debate over Fair Employment Practices Legislation, a plank which was a part of both party platforms, finally ended with the house approving a measure, which I voted for, to establish a commission to inquire into cases of discrimination. I believe it is a progressive step and much good will be derived from this plan if the measure is accepted by the senate.

We cannot eliminate intolerance by passing laws any more than, as we too often are reminded, a man is made moral by this medium. But, it can be accomplished by education.

My vote was impelled by the fact that the people of the 11th congressional district voted overwhelmingly a few years ago against setting up a commission, with almost arbitrary powers, which could throw employers into jail if someone brought against them the flimsiest charge of discrimination. No such powers exist in the bill passed by the house.

Despite the late hours caused by the house sessions, I've taken time lately to work on legislation which would benefit the solid American citizen who wants to build or buy a home of his own, rather than having the government provide one at the expense of others through a socialized public housing program.

My bill would exempt from income taxes home payments up to $15,000. In other words, if you were paying $75 per month, or $900 per year, on the principal of your home mortgage, you wouldn't pay income taxes on that amount. The exemption would be allowed until $15,000 were paid.

I believe we need and want a nation of home owners.

Furthermore, through stimulation of interest in home building, everyone benefits, starting with the workers engaged in manufacturing materials, to the skilled artisans such as carpenters and plumbers who do the on-the-ground construction, and then on through almost every channel.

I have been working on the complicated details involving tax laws with the attorneys of the legislative counsel. I hope to give you a more detailed account of what my bill will provide before the close of this month.

HOW TO CURE A GROUCH

Don't condemn a grouch--you might be one. Let us see why a person is grouchy. Maybe he can't help it. Pressure on a nerve in a tooth will produce irritation. In a like manner, bad posture or spinal distortion warps the framework of the body, causing pressure on the spinal cord. This means the nerve and blood supply to the brain, heart, lungs, kidneys, and other vital organs, is impaired, thus they become weak, run down and susceptible to disease. . . All this can be easily corrected with no pain. If you have a grouch in your family and are unable to cope with the problem, I may be able to help you.

GEORGE YATES TO HEAD COUNTY FAIR COMMITTEE

George V. Yates, Carmel investment securities dealer, was today named chairman of the floriculture committee for the 1950 Monterey County Fair, Sept. 28 - Oct. 1.

President J. F. van Loben Sels, in making the announcement, stated, "We feel particularly fortunate in securing the services of Mr. Yates, who acted as an assistant to Dr. A. L. Van Meter, the 1949 chairman who made such an outstanding success of the flower show. Mr. Yates was recommended by Dr. Van Meter as well as Monterey Peninsula Garden Club members.

Other members of the floriculture committee will be named in the near future, Mr. Yates said.

Allen Ross, well known California horse show manager, has been selected to manage the 1950 horse show of the Monterey County Fair.

Allen Ross has managed a number of the large horse shows in California, including the Los Angeles National Horse Show, and has announced at the Cow Palace. He was recently recommended to Director Walter Markham of the fair board as one of the outstanding men.

President van Loben Sels announced that the horse lovers of Monterey County and surrounding area would be invited to a meeting some time early in March and that from this group the 1950 horse show committee would be formed. He also said Mr. Ross would be present to help lay out the premium list for the show.

the BEAUTIFUL CARMEL RIVIERA

YANKEE POINT ACRES . . . the exclusive subdivision on the gorgeous CARMEL RIVIERA is NOW OPEN! For home sites see your broker. YANKEE POINT ACRES is the property of CARMEL RIVIERA, CHARLES G. SAWYER, Mgr., Carmel, California.

This Week We SALUTE:

WILLIAM BION BURCHELL

...WHO SOLD LOT NUMBER 18 AT CARMEL RIVIERA TO MR. AND MRS. DONALD ATWATER, OF SAN FRANCISCO. Bion, who has resided on the peninsula three years, is fast gaining a reputation as one of our topflight real estate brokers, associated with Carmel Realtor Kenneth I. Smith. He came to California in 1930 from Nebraska and worked for a time in mining and logging camps of Calaveras County. In 1937 he married the former Helen Turner and they now have two children: Dennis, 11, and Keith, 5. Prior to building his peninsula home in 1946, he was employed by Standard Oil in Richmond, Calif. Having majored in speech and drama at Hastings College, he proved a worthy addition to peninsula theatricals, appearing in the Centennial Pageant and in Forest Theater plays in Carmel. It was during this time that he met Ken Smith, who is noted both as an actor and as a realtor. He has been with Mr. Smith about two years...Bion is most enthusiastic about CARMEL RIVIERA, and predicts an interesting future for the development.
